ON-LAND EXPLORATIONS

Interpretive Hiking

Mari Mari offers a wide range of coastal and rainforest trails that allow you to explore the diverse areas within our Reserve, each one with its own unique scenery, habitats, and highlights. Available daily, these personalized guided activities are designed to stimulate interaction with this pristine environment. Mari Mari's team of specially-trained guides will share their enthusiasm and deep knowledge of native flora and fauna to create the very best experience the sights and sounds of the Reserve have to offer. Each trail within the 9,000-acre terrain is suitable for hikers of all levels, whether half-day or full-day, and the tempo of each one is designed to cater for each the guest. Detailed trail maps make it easy for you to explore the Reserve independently at your own pace. Options include The Blue Whale Trail, The Pudu Trail, The Forest Grove Trail, The Galileo Trail, and The Olivillos Trail.

Horseback Riding

Mari Mari's stables are home to the beautifully-groomed horses that are well-suited for all levels of riding experiences. On each ride you will marvel at the impressive coastline and untouched virgin forest while a naturalist guide highlights the unique vegetation and wildlife species within the Reserve. Exploring on horseback is a wonderful way to experience the Reserve, with trails designed to suit riders of all levels.

Bird Watching

Mari Mari's pristine environment is home to dozens of bird species, some unique and endemic to this part of the world. Qualified naturalists will not only share their enthusiasm for wildlife but will also help you identify the different species by observing them or by listening to their sounds as they sing along with nature. With your own check-list booklet you will be able to learn about many of the birds' local names and the indigenous folk legends they inspired. Field guides, binoculars, and scopes are provided.

The Reserve boasts an abundance of natural, pristine landscapes as well as an extraordinary array of native flora and fauna. From ancient coastal old-growth to broadleaf temperate forests, this hotspot of biodiversity will give you the opportunity to capture many wonders with your camera. Some of the wildlife highlights include the Puma (puma concolor), Pudú (pudu puda), the second smallest deer species in the world, and the Magellanic Woodpecker (campephilus magellanicus) among other endemic species.

OCEAN AND RIVER ADVENTURES

Penguin, Sea Lion, Dolphin, and Whale Watching
Few places on this planet offer a more intimate opportunity to witness the magnificence of the most noble of the ocean's creatures than this section of the Pacific Ocean.

NATURAL RESERVE EXPERIENCE

Depending on weather conditions and the season, we will venture out to visit penguin colonies, crowded sea lion isles, and migratory lanes for the Humpback and Blue whales. Mari Mari's 35 ft-motor boat offers guests a relaxed and contemplative experience with a respectful approach to the marine wildlife. The vessel allows guests to observe the wildlife not only in the utmost comfort but also in safety, with its state-of-the-art positioning and safety technology. Another way of exploring the ocean is by kayak, an exciting way to witness the biodiversity of the Pacific Ocean while paddling to the Isles of the Reserve for a "sea-level" view of the coastal eco-system. We prepare all guests with the appropriate safety equipment, instructions, and an expert guide to ensure that this incredible adventure becomes another unforgettable memory of your experience at Mari Mari.

Stand Up Paddle Boarding (SUP)

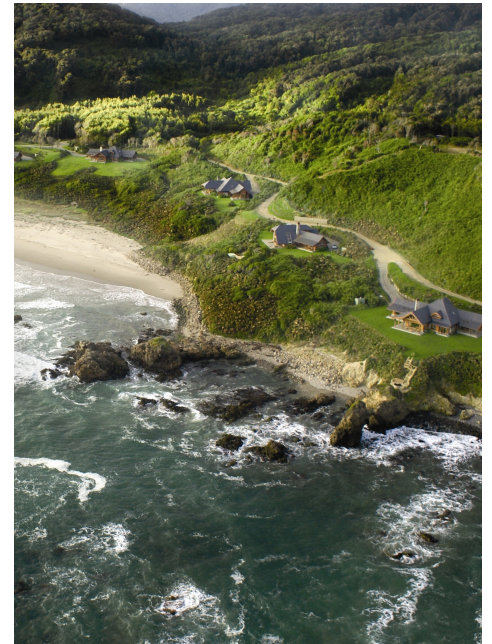

The waters off our coast provide the perfect conditions for this sport in which boarders stand on their boards and use a paddle to propel themselves through the water. We supply all necessary equipment and preparation for this exciting active option.

Saltwater Fishing, Surf Fishing, Trolling, and Vertical Jigging

This area of the South Pacific Ocean is renowned for its abundance of saltwater fish, many of which fall in the category of game species such as the Chilean Sea Bass, Brackish Water Bass, Sierra Mackerel, Bonito, and Salmon.

CULTURAL ACTIVITIES

Understanding Local Culture

Part of understanding the workings of improved ecology and sustainable development is to learn about the different natural phenomena and how humankind has interacted with and depended on the natural environment. The well-prepared team of guides will shed light on local culture, Chile's ancestral cultures, and how they learned to survive and love this land. Mari Mari works hard to be culturally responsible, be sensitive to local traditions, and be committed to build on the local heritage.

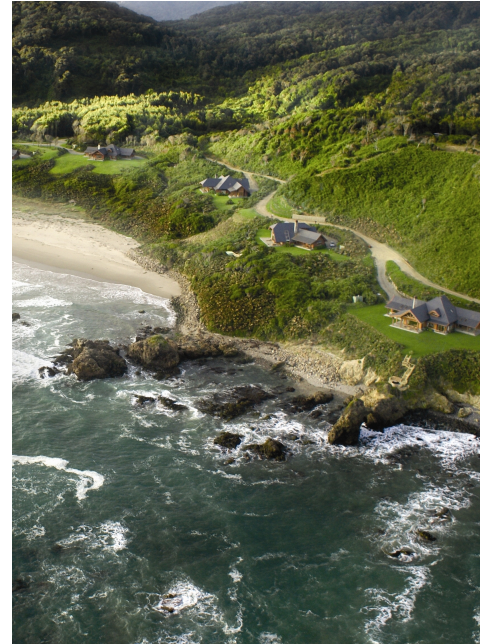

Patagonia Culture & Heritage Tours

Our guests can enjoy in-depth cultural experiences with visits to patrimonial churches, archaeological highlights, and neighbouring communities among others. Each of these activities is designed to offer unique insights into the history and culture of Northern Patagonia.

Organic Farm & Culinary Tours

Organic and culinary tours include visits to Mari Mari's greenhouse and demonstrations of how local farmers work these fertile grounds. You will have the chance to taste fresh organic fruits and vegetables right from the garden or you can personally choose the ingredients Chef Flores will transform into a culinary delight.

Monte Verde

Monte Verde is an ancient settlement located close to Mari Mari and is one of the most remarkable in the Americas. The discovery of a small child's footprint in 1975, in a marshy field 28km west of Puerto Montt, sent shockwaves through the archaeological world; evidence of human settlement in the Americas suddenly predated the long-accepted Clovis paradigm by roughly 1,000 years. Under the direction of American anthropologist Tom Dillehay, the site makes for a fascinating cultural activity.

ACTIVITIES FOR CHILDREN

All activities at Mari Mari are designed for the whole family. While we do not offer child-specific activities at present, our guides and staff will make sure the youngest guests have as much fun as the adults, integrating the everyone regardless of experience levels and age. A good example of an interactive and child-friendly activity is a visit to our organic garden, during which the young guests identify plants and herbs and even pick ingredients for dinner. Babysitting and child-care services are available but will depend on availability.
