Reserva Ecológica

Is an area close to the city where nature and environment are preserved. It's probably the most similar scenery for its flora and fauna found by the first Spanish travellers.

La Boca

Historically, La Boca is a portside neighbourhood. Its particular style reflects the migratory influx. It is one of the birthplaces of Tango, along with its brothels and cafes. Caminito is a must for tourist to know this unique and unforgettable place.

San Telmo

The first neighbourhood of Buenos Aires, where aristocratic families settle down until the yellow fever epidemic 1871 broke out.

As time passed the big houses became "conventillos" (buildings packed with families of squatters). Today it's a must to know the historical heritage of the city

Plaza de Mayo

Since the foundation of Buenos Aires the Plaza de Mayo, became the scenario of all important political events in Argentina.
